5. Participants

6. Impact of the Training : Every alumni event is much more than just a friendly meet-up—it has the potential to bring in great rewards for school. That's why it's imperative to ensure that Alumni are brand ambassadors. When alumni speak positively about their former Institute, it boosts the Institute reputation among their connections and the society at large. This promotes the Institute image to prospective students and their families, encouraging more students to attend. Connected alumni are a rich resource of marketplace connection. About 80% of people still find jobs through networking. Mr. Ashish Barbar, Mr. Mayur Pawar, Mr. Ganesh Rokde conducted the alumni sessions on "motivation for future goals" and explore ways of supporting current students and motivating them to work hard in Institute. This session also plays a vital role in the academic community too since Getting B school students back into gear after summer holidays/ Internship and for newly joined students is no easy task, especially when nearly half of them have a chronic lack of motivation.

That's why it's imperative to ensure that Alumni are brand ambassadors. Mr. Ajinkya Kari( Rand Stand India Ltd), Mr.Ganga Whakhare (Yazaki India PVT Ltd) both were invited to interact with student to get information about industry interaction from student. This session was interactive. Students asked question to the speaker related to industry expectation.in this session to increase the student's productivity and facilitate learning, it is recommended that: freshers always want to be aware of what does a company or employer expect from fresher's in terms of the skills set and knowledge.

Every employer/company will have few expectations while choosing the candidates. In the session few points come out of discussion and that are listed below

1. Aptitude:

Aptitude tests are conducted to know your problem-solving skills, how efficiently you can work to solve a problem in the given time. To know your thinking ability and how your approach will be to solve a problem

2. Technical skills:

As a fresher, student must know basics technical knowledge of respective field.

3. Attitude:

The interviewer will look personality traits like willingness to learn new things, confidence, leadership qualities, team working skills and ready to adapt new environment. An employer wants to hire someone who has confidence and good presentation skills to represent the company and projects when required.

Apart from this, the candidate should work on building the following traits:

1. Attentive:

It can be regarded as "oh-so-important-to have" trait because without the massive attention one cannot draft a perfect plan for upcoming periods. Moreover, they will be unclear about their tasks and assignments allotted to him if they are not attentive towards their superiors.

2. Loyalty:

It is well-versed fact that companies expect its employees to be loyal towards the company. They don't look for the person who are not committed and who cannot be trusted to represent the company in public. They usually want a person who doesn't require close scrutiny.

3. Honesty:

Employers want their employees to be transparent and needs timely delivery of information with accuracy. Done a mistake? Then don't cover it up. They appreciate your honesty.

4. Work ethic:

Work that is achieved without your dedication and hard work is like a water bubble. So be on time to the workplace, use your abilities to the fullest in the accomplishment of tasks assigned to you, do what for what you are hired to do. What else will employer will ask you?

5. Dependability:

In the world of massive competition, employers have a lot of things to manage at a time. They want to hire smart people who can share their work. Not the one who requires continuous monitoring which doubles their work.

6. Flexibility:

Employers and their employees need to react quickly to changing business conditions. Employers need employees who can change gears and adapt as required.

7. Initiative:

Being initiative pays off in this highly competitive world. It can be supported by a saying "early bird gets warm". This is one of the key traits that every employer looks for in a person that he wants to hire, how? Through some rounds in an interview like Group Discussions and debates.

8. Self-discipline:

interviewer will hire a person who is well-mannered.

9. Hardworking:

Again working hard doesn't mean that hitting the rocks under the shining sun. IT means that you should work hard towards the attainment of tasks allotted to you and is available to the company whenever your company needs you.

10. Good learner:

This trait not only meant for your company's growth but also own enhancement. One should always carry the attitude of eager to learn new things, interviewers are keen in observing this attitude.
